For the beginner, use a small amount of acne calming or clarifying gel the first few days, then increase to an adequate amount

For the first week, skin will be more dry, possible flaking and peeling may occur. This is normal because the old/ dead surface skin cells are separating and peeling from newer skin underneath

In the beginning, there may be some new breakouts and pimples that occur. This often happens in some individuals. It is a sign that the products are working, so please continue to use them regularly

If skin becomes red and slightly swollen, you may reduce the amount of clarifying gel

If irritation, redness, and swelling becomes worse or persistent, discontinue the use of acne calming or clarifying gel for a few days.
